YOUR CONTRACT CHECKLIST

The Provider must give you a copy of the contract upon signing and other important documents. Make sure your contract includes:

- The name of the person who is paying for the contract (the purchaser).
- The name of the person for whom the supplies or services are to be provided (the recipient/recipient(s)).
- The name of the licensed supplier you are dealing with (the Provider).
- A description of the supplies or services you have chosen and details of when and how they are to be provided.
- The price of each supply or service, when and how that price.
- All payment, cancellation and return policies, including the right to change your mind and cancel the contract.
- For insurance rights, make sure the contract also includes the contract location and coverage of the goods, type or risks.
- A copy of this guide.

- For contracting rights, make sure the contract also includes the location and description of where the contracting is to occur. Your Provider must also give you the following documents:
 - A copy of the contract's or order form's by laws.
 - A certified or notarized rights or contracting rights document that rights are given. In full, the contract must include the name of the person who can legally authorize an insurance or contracting.

DID YOU KNOW?
 For the contract to be valid (for the "contractor"), it must be signed by you and the Provider. However, the contract is signed only if you sign and return it.

DID YOU KNOW?
BE SPECIFIC.
 Review the contract and price list carefully and ask questions to ensure that all of your requirements are specifically addressed. For example, if you want priority services, be sure the contract includes the contract.

Photo courtesy: Hobo_018 / Getty Images When people have a serious illness or a long-term health condition, receiving a type of medical care called palliative care can help them improve their daily lives. Therefore, they see different from person to person. Palliative care help people with severe or long-lasting conditions to better control their symptoms. Your headset can give you recommendations based on all the details you know about your health. They could also coordinate their general care plan. These types of conditions could not be curable. In that case, it is possible that you concentrate more on working with a therapist. That way, you can continue living at home, where it is more comfortable while receiving treatment. Its objective is to increase access to palliative care and palliative care to help improve the quality of life of people. Your team may include the following people: A nurse or a doctor is at the center of a palliative care team. When you opt for palliative care, you can work with others to define your needs, and your suppliers help you satisfy them. But it is a supplement to other treatments that you could be receiving for your affection. It is also aimed at alleviating the stress you feel due to your condition. But it can also help you if you frequently stay at the hospital due to a health problem or if you visit the emergency room often because of your illness. Palliative care is also a common option for people who have AIDS, Huntington's disease, Parkinson's disease, Alzheimer's and other affections have no cure. A social worker can help you manage the financial aspects of your care and connect it with programs that give you access to the resources of your community. In this way, you and your palliative care specialist can communicate with each other to determine the appropriate course of action for your treatment. If your doctor tells you later that your condition has become terminal, you can continue to receive palliative care.
